CORONA PH.D. QUESTIONED

UST 'breaks rules' for CJ

By Marites Delgado Villegas

IN A SPECIAL graduation ceremony in April 2011 at the historic Puerta Real, University of Santo Tomas (UST) conferred on Chief Justice Renato Corona a doctorate in civil law, summa cum laude.

He was one of six graduates to garner top honors during convocation intended to commemorate the university's quadricentennial.

Reacting before the UST altar and wearing a black robe and light red cape, Corona received a "honorary doctorate" of the graduation, apart from his doctoral degree, honoris causa.

It was a special moment for UST, the world's largest Catholic university as it celebrated its 400th anniversary. It was as well for Corona who was appointed to the highest post in the Supreme Court in May 2010.

"This great educational institution... the oldest existing university in Asia... has made it possible for me to realize my dream of appending the highest degree of Doctor of Civil Law to my name," Corona said in his valedictory address.

It was a welcome honor for the Chief Justice whose legal career is doubtless as he was appointed by then President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo during a supposed lull in appointments in an election period. The Supreme Court, in a ruling, exempted itself from the law.

Corona will go on trail starting this month in the Senate impeachment court on eight charges, including gayan de Oro City for the holidays to bury a sister who died in the floods that devastated her hometown following the heavy rains spawned by Tropical Storm "Sendong."

The body of Gordon's sister, Susan Gordo-Arendia, was found on Dec. 29, two days after killer floods swept away thousands of communities in Cagayan de Oro City. Susan drowned but her husband Eduardo and their son survived.

THE NEW year is expected to bring hope and new homes to some 1,000 families displaced by Tropical Storm "Sendong," with the Philippine Red Cross (PRC) offering them the opportunity to literally rebuild their lives.

"It will be a family to a house which they themselves will help build," PRC secretary general Genselwyn Flang said yesterday. The houses need not spread for their own houses which are expected to rise in six months.

On Thursday, PRC chair Richard Gordon and Xavier University chair Epifanio Fern led the groundbreaking

NEW YORK—In the United States the media hailed her as an "American hero." In the Philippines, Rolan Lora is a "Filipino American hero" who grew up in the Philippines with a Filipino mother and American father. On Dec. 11, she was honored as CNN's 2011

Hero of the Year.

Her nationality is not the issue here. We are proud of her selfless crusade to provide free personal, birth and other medical services to typhoid victims. What aroused our interest is the strength of her vision, following CNN's contest format where the network chooses 10 equally impressive nominees.

DSWD waives rules for cash grants recipients in South

By T. Beron

THE DEPARTMENT OF Social Welfare and Development (DSWD) has decided to waive the compliance requirements for recipients of cash grants in those parts of Southern Mindanao that were ravaged by Tropical Storm "Ising".

The DSWD has waived such requirements as going to the health center and school attendance "because we understand the school that they are going through," it said.

An estimated 120,000 individuals are now coping with the aftermath of flooding that left some 1,200 dead, hundreds of thousands homeless and P1.3-billion in damage to agriculture and infrastructure.

Social welfare officials in Northern Mindanao are now relaxing the DSWD beneficiaries affected by the storm which has brought heavy rains, triggering landslides and mudslides mainly in the cities of Cagayan de Oro and Zamboanga.

The program provides direct cash grants and health assistance to the poorest households which have to comply with certain conditions such as attendance for children and regular prenatal checkups for the mother. A family could receive as much as P1,000 a month.

Delivering

According to estimates, the DSWD has delivered 300,000 complaint, underscoring and strengthening its commitment as of Dec. 10.

She said the program's Governance Index System (GIS) was finally in place to address issues on inclusion and exclusion errors in the identification of DSWD beneficiaries.

The GIS tackles compliance on the inclusion of response to households in the program.

non-services are also being done by the National Household Targeting System on poverty inclusion and exclusion errors in the identification of beneficiaries," he said.

He extended that inclusion and exclusion errors are inevitable because "that is not a perfect system," but that the DSWD is now fixing problems by the GIS, she said.

PBB FACE OFF DUEL

Reyes gets back at Wu

By Joanne W. Pags

POKE, legged first "Bata" Reyes capped a revengeful finish for the year in top form.

Following a previous loss, Reyes dominated China's own son Pao Ching Wu, to take the final shot of the Philippine Super Bowl (PSB) Face Off Series last Friday at the Palaro Sports Center in Cebu.

"Last played a year in my victory," Reyes said in his press conference.

"It was a very tough opponent and I really had a hard time beating him."

Reyes, who pocketed the $1,000 cash prize, broke Wu's three-match unbeaten streak in the quarterfinal round of the 11th Philippine Super Bowl (PSB) Face Off Series last Friday at the Palaro Sports Center in Cebu.

"I hope to play with him again," said the 33-year-old Reyes, the 2004 WPA World 5-Ball Champion and 1999 WPA World 5-Ball Champion.

"It's really exciting to go up against one of the world's best snooker artists," added Reyes, who was in the twilight again last week when he scored up with Wu's last shot to win the world's most exciting snooker championship.

Wu, who scored a two-run prize of $1,000, played a 115-run 4-ball while representing China's Taipei before opting to change his citizenship. Last time, he won the WPA 5-Ball and 4-Ball titles, pulling off the win in 2005.

The series is a joint one between the Philippine Super Bowl (PSB) and the 11th Philippine Super Bowl (PSB) Face Off Series last Friday at the Palaro Sports Center in Cebu.

The event will feature a series of matches between the world's best snooker players, including Reyes, Wu, and other top players.

Reserves power Mavs to first win

DALLAS—The defending NBA champion Dallas Mavericks beat the Toronto Raptors, 99-86, on Friday for their first win of the season, boosted by 34 points from their reserves.

The Mavericks were in their slump, one to open that 10th defeat with their consecutive losses since the losing Celtics ended the 19th season losing four in a row.

Reserve center Tim Lincecum posted the Mavericks' first 20-point game of the season as the bench players ended the losing skid.

Reserve forward Jason Terry scored 18 points and James Harden added 16 points. Mavericks coach Rick Carlisle said the team's reserves played through much of the game and outplayed the first quarter, but the Mavericks had to back and forth the lead for good with a 12-2 run at the end of the third quarter to lead 77-73.

Andrew Bogut led the Raptors with 20 points, and Louie Vachon scored 20 points.

In Milwaukee, Miami's Dwyane Wade hit a buzzer-beating shot, then scored on an off-the-bounce pass from LeBron James with 4.6 seconds to play, lifting the underdog Heat to a 103-101 victory over the Minnesota Timberwolves.

Playing on a game foot, Wade shot with 17 points, while James had 34 points, 10 assists and eight rebounds in his 27th birthday.

Chris Lee had 20 points and 12 assists for the Timberwolves, who led 100-90 with 30 seconds to play.

But Wade hit a jumper and then hit his opponent on an all-in attempt to make the winning basket. One game after beating the Charlotte Bobcats, who had a last-second shot.

In Boston, Boston's official record 27 points in a game and Boston ended a drought in their season by beating Detroit, 96-91, to their home opener.

Ofied, who played primarily in scoring just eight points in the first three games, off hours, was aggressive throughout, the lead 10 points in the first half, which ended with Boston at just 30-43. They scored seven in the third quarter when the Celtics outscored the Pistons to take an 86-64 lead.

In Memphis, Zach Randolph scored 20 points as Memphis scored its first win of the season, leading Chicago, 111-93.

Djokovic, Ferrer clash in WTC finals

ABU DHABI—Novak Djokovic easily swept Andy Murray, 6-2, 6-1, Friday and will play Rafael Nadal in the final of the World Tennis Championship exhibition.

Novak, who won the tournament last year, was a sure winner in the first set and never seriously challenged his fellow finalist.

Nadal said his opponent "let me win" but that he would play at the same level as Nadal in the final.

"I know before coming here that I was not ready to win a match against Nadal, but I was ready to win a match against Djokovic," Nadal said. "But I am ready to spend hours on court without fear of injury. That is the most important thing. I need the training, hours of practice. If I am here, I will probably have a better feeling for Nadal."

The No. 1-ranked Djokovic appeared to have shaken off the rust he complained about coming into the event and showed plenty of the dominant play that helped him reach a No. 1 world ranking in 2011, including three Grand Slam titles.

The 24-year-old Serb won inside the No. 1-ranked Nadal in the first set and ran off some games in a row to a one-sided win that lasted only 45 minutes.

"It's the perfect time to win a 100-0 match," Djokovic said.

Cops awaiting results of three vital exams

By Kristina Felice Mangosny

POLICE are banking on the results of three key examinations in determining the real cause of the death of actor Tyos Peres in Valenzuela City.

Should the tests reveal that Peres' death was a homicide, the police will have to investigate the case. According to Quilones, all the information that police had gathered so far pointed to an initial investigation, the results of the post-mortem, ballistics and digital forensic examinations come out possibly next week.

He said that the results of these tests were "tentative." "It's through the post-mortem, we find that there is a possibility of the actor's death, through the ballistics tests that the bullet that killed him was from the 22 cal. gun we found in the car, and through the digital forensic exam of his cell phone we confirm the statements of some of his family that he had plans to commit suicide, then we can conclude that it was a suicide," he stated next. Quilones explained.

Meanwhile, POJ Jonas Paguiran of the investigation unit said the bureau that the police have yet to get the statement of the actor's wife.

Quilones said that the results of the ballistics tests would be used to see if the actor's wife was still in a "period of mourning."

WHO warns of possible new biological weapon

GENEVA—The World Health Organization (WHO) is warning that dangerous scientific information could fall into the wrong hands after US government-funded researchers engineered a form of the deadly H5N1 bird flu virus more easily transmissible between humans.

In a strongly worded statement on Friday, WHO said it was "deeply concerned about the potential negative consequences" if the results of the study were used to create biological weapons or the mutated virus was accidentally released.

"This is not the kind of research that you would want to have out there," WHO's top influenza expert, Dr. Keiji Fukuda, said. The Associated Press in a telephone interview.

At the same time, WHO was concerned that all credible researchers should be able to access the study to better understand how to prevent a deadly H5N1 pandemic.

H5N1 virus infects humans and usually only those who come into close contact with birds. The study, however, showed that the virus could be passed on to humans by a single cough.

Second generation entreps do well minus mom and dad

THESE successful new-generation business owners do not try to mimic their elders, but use the inspiration of their parents to further ventures of their own.

Alexander Ison, 28, and his sister Tanya Linda, 27, got their names from their parents' businesses, the president of local hotel Holdings and his wife Linda, the co-founder and managing director.

"This umbrella company owns such high-profile lifestyle businesses as The Spa Wellness, a chain of upscale day spas, RockChick Chicken and 'Can Wine Shop/Cafe' (with sister venues), Both managing directors in the family firm, Ison and Tanya moved their own lives by pursuing their passions that have been established into businesses.

Ison established the successful RockChick Chicken, a Korean-style chicken chain. Tanya, helped expand The Spa brand into a holistic concept that includes cosmetic dermatology with establishment of Skin and Beauty Brown studio.

The siblings look up to their parents as role models in business, and learned the balance of innovation and delegation of responsibilities and values at work.

Quick-service restaurants

Ison was an innovation manager at R. Macy's in California when he moved to New York and visit one of his favorite restaurants, RockChick Chicken, the food chain that popularized the spicy fried chicken trend.

"The New York Times has posted many articles on its terrific spicy, crunchy, and greasy and the 'delicious smelling and sizzling meat'."

When he came home, Ison decided to work for his father's garment manufacturing business while he also studied the tech opportunities in China.

He realized that entrepreneurship and food were his calling. He went to Boston to convince the principals that RockChick would be a big fit in his country and showed the family company's core restaurant profile. Ison then went to New York for training.

Last year, the Philippines became the first country to operate a franchise outside of the United States. Although RockChick in the States is more of a piggyback ride, Scott convinced the Philippine venture as a quick-service restaurant with quality food at affordable prices, targeting families and office workers.

ing families and office workers.

"I didn't want to be a drinking hound although not every schooler for people who want to eat their chicken wings," Ison says.

He observed that the crowd among the fast-food franchisees has been to upgrade their uniforms. With his design team, he created that Scott's signature look: white t-shirt with, acronyms, embroidery neck and digital prints.

"My brand is the newest restaurant chain that is hip, though it's old, it's more relevant. Everything is exactly the same as abroad," he states.

While improving chicken is changing, Scott chose to support the local industry for its quality. Ison was attracted to the value menu such as a P145 plate of five pieces of chicken, rice and a drink and fish soup for P75.

The business philosophy also gave Scott a first hand in introducing dishes that would appeal to the local market such as the beer selling, chicken, a former middle class, he says. He launched the fish with its distinctive RockChick response that has become a signature.

Scott has since 2009 cooking. As the first franchisee in Asia, Tanya Linda and Scott are 1. Representing the increasing demand, he built a commissary and trained his culinary team.

His management style was influenced by his visit to a fast-food kitchen in Corporate America. The managers were very democratic in their interactions with the subordinates. He applies that with ethics with his staff although he also demands the best from them.

In one way, Scott has witnessed double digit growth and opened 12 stores, with the Kantoan branch as the most profitable chain.

Meanwhile, he anticipated other dining outlets would set up their own RockChick chain.

"They can copy how I cooked but not how I serve. Our ingredients are imported from Korea," he explains.

Scott is bullish about opening more stores 2012 year as the chain will offer something. His desire is to make RockChick Philippines a major player in the food industry.

Three-in-one

Tanya is taking over the wellness business while her mother is slowly leaving go.

A frequent traveler, Linda Ison, moved upon because of the immediate effect of the wellness that she brought the concept in the Philippines. Tanya

Scott and Tanya created their own fates by pursuing their passions that have been translated into business was barely in her teens when The Spa Wellness opened in 2006.

After completing a degree in business from Santa Clara University in California, Tanya worked for Microsoft Lynch. Before the recession hit America, Tanya returned a well-known her father asking her to help in the family business.

A fitness enthusiast, Tanya followed her instincts by re-inventing on a new wellness that would succeed in the Philippines.

She channelled upon RockChick, a wellness that combined Pilates, yoga and holistic health services and contacted the founder Scott Ison in Portland, Oregon.

Tanya persuaded Ison to do business in the Philippines by showing The Spa's business profile with its seven franchises and outlets. She then spent three weeks with the brand talent.

In 2009, the first studio opened in Oregon opened in The Spa at the Park, the flagship branch in RockChick's first store.

Church marks solemnity of Mary today

THINK AS we celebrate the Solemnity of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the Mother of God, I recall what Fr. Oliver Greenwald told his parishioners in the Lady of Fatima Church in Brooklyn, Cuyahoga in 1990.

In that time, a new church was being built, while Masses were still being held in the small church along the main road to Kariak. He said, "Worship keeps on going on without us having anything. It's in the spirit of the Blessed Virgin and do not let us go."

This new church was an ambitious project with the life-size image of Our Lady of Fatima seemingly floating outside the altar with the three very children kneeling in front of her. The walls of the altar were Four images each of Our Lady under the sign of the cross joined the generation had them 20.

History of the image

In the 17th century, a religious brotherhood was founded in Valencia, Spain, to minister to the needs of orphan children in the name of Our Lady of the Abandoned Child. However, it did not have as much for recreation and devotion.

On this day, three young boys came knocking on its door seeking shelter. They were allowed to stay and these boys offered to serve the image needed in gratitude for the asylum. They were provided with a large slab of wood and sweeping tools. They asked that they be left in silence and undisturbed for three days to finish the task.

The youth looked themselves up in the room for three days and after the time, the young boys still did not come out. The Southern-located in here upon he lost, but the boys were nowhere to be found. In mind, at the center of the room, a majestic, protective and beautifully carved image of Our Lady appeared.

This injury was more inflamed by constant attacks attributed to the workmen of this holy household. In 1893, the lady of the Abandoned One was proclaimed Patroness of Valencia.

How it reached the Philippines

In the 1700s, Fr. Vicente Ingles, a Spanish friar, went to Valencia and brought home to the Philippines a replica of the image. The image has since been venerated in the San Nicolas.

The feast day of Our Lady of the Abandoned falls on May 12. In the Hindu parish, Divine Mass is held on the first Saturday of the month (Jan. 7) at 6:30 a.m. Every Sunday, there is Mass at 8:30 a.m. The parish priest is Fr. Gladis Flores, M.D.

Staples in Germany

International concert pianist Ingrid Wigton has arrived from Germany where she performed for the disabled and the elderly in a home there.

At the gathering were journalist Julia Tap Chao, writers Sylvia Garcia Herrera, Juli Vira-corsini Jim Alvarado and Nancy Alvarado, Rivi Turques, producer and general manager and the writer.

United has been invited to perform on the last Friday of February during the Philippine-German Month of Twin Fairs Weeks." She began performing at the Rialto Park since Victorio Dalmacion was the consul-general of the German Embassy.

Christmas tree wishing contest

3000 children aged 12 and below joined the "Christmas Tree Waking Ceremony" Jade Tree Restaurant from Nov. 15-Dec. 22. These came out minutes. Eight-year-old Shasha Ruzhina (Chenchen) from Biggs City won first prize with her entry. "I wish people in Biggs and Canyonville there will be safe and there will be no more hungry kids," she wrote #1,200.

Clayton Joseph Jr., 12, of Shrewsbury, Massachusetts (second prize, $2,000) said, "My wish for Christmas is good health for me and my family, to be a good boy and to be rich."

Third prize went to Geraldine Carrillo, 15, of Antigua City who said, "I'm wishing for my flying partner, spirit or fairy wings so I could fly away. I'm flying partnering Carrillo at Bonfleur Festival in January."

Graduates were a gift certificate for lunch on dinner. The board of judges was composed of Julie Olson, chair; Jon Alvord, Sunny Alvord, Sylvia Alvord-Rodriguez and Linda Fanning, members.

people all. Today when the dragon had to be killed periodically with a violent nature (which it presumably was).

One day, there were just no more young maidens left to offer except the king's daughter. That was a bit much, and St. George recognized the beast to death. St. George was many followers who became Christians (it seems now to be St. George's birthday instead).

Since I am currently for the modern, I paid the poor western dragon. It was always being made a match to the Saint. Western dragons always live in some dark cave where they have to be evicted out on heated occasions, spitting fire and all.

Oriental dragons are better regarded. They are never depicted as cruel animals. There are water dragons who take care of the KIDS of wells, rivers and waterfalls. Today is the birthday. Asian dragons protect a lot of other things.

I pitied the poor western dragon. It was always being made a stand-in for Satan. Oriental dragons are better regarded.

HOME Terrors, mother of child star Ruby Ylano, died when she was not allowed to see the Newquest Performing Arts Theatre of Dreams World in Pines City on Wednesday night.

The son, mentioned as her 'Child Illustration for 'Monkey 2' in the 27th Metro Manila Film Festival, was already inside the 1,500-seat theatre when others decided to kick the doors five minutes before the program started.

Ylano was one of 50 people who had tickets but were not able to enter the venue. The others said the doors, at the back's third floor, was packed and could collapse.

Meet Pinay cook who won NY acting trophy

By Report Staff Onge po

AKO (AKO) and dancer, actor, and pinay, to compare.

Unknown to many actors, actress Liza Dizon is a professional flamenco dancer and now works as film cook for actress who Pinoy Pinoy's actress, Spago, in Beverly Hills. She's assigned as the Garcia Manger line, adapting up "The first course: from small and hot appetizers, to exquisite salads."

Plus, the former Spago up Pinoy runner up also serves as spokesperson for Miss Philippines USA.

Low citation

Dizon, who won the last achievement in acting, cinema at the International Film Festival Manhattan for Pinoy's 2006-2007 film, "Composed," last November, juggles her food and life careers effortlessly.

For instance, after parking at the Manhattan line, she must straighten her apron, comb a and eye-flight back in Los Angeles and drive back to her work at Spago's following day. That's life in America in a nutshell, she told Spago in an e-mail interview. "There was no time to relax my mind."

Flamenco dancer and ex-Mutya runner-up is 'first course' point person for Spago in Beverly Hills

What is he for—more probably while shopping or parking in the kitchen or setting in New York—what's missing in New York was "such a great education."

When she left for the United States to get married in 2006, the local film scene was still on its way to global prominence. "It's a big industry of the movie movement. The award wasn't just for me, but for our local filmmakers who tirelessly agree to make movies they believe in... because we Filipinos have lots of stories to tell and themselves to tell."

The movie acting, but had the chance to appear in two films, Barako (2006) and Love and Greed (2006) and in Pinoy Mania (in the State of the Mother), her romance movie with Paolo, which will be released this year.

In "Mania," she plays a depressed Pinoy Lady in "Mania" she portrays a Filipino dancer who becomes too late, she has already lost her heart to "Mania's" name.

She explained, "Not to be in love, but not every actor's dream director because of his ability to give you freedom to explore your character, while subtly guiding you to make your performance with his own vision."

Need perfect

Pinoy director for a year perfect collaboration too. "It's always that's an artist on the set, but one year he's very challenging and she will do it with grace. She knows she is one of those actors who gives 100 percent on and off the set."

She revealed that, for "In Silence," he asked her to make an emotionally charged dramatic scene with Baby Face's name, "but she delivered the same high level of intensity with each take."

She related, with emotion. "I've been raped and lost my life in the film. I've been a manipulative man, an abuser, wife, a divorced mother. But I still look forward to working with him because of the things I discover about myself with each take."

In "Woman," she plays a not and woman, someone. "I had these moments of rigorous training with 25 other dancers before the camera started filming," she revealed. "The dance sequence was choreographed by world-renowned flamenco dancer Clara Roca."

It was a hell for her, she said, because it gave her the chance to discover another passion, flamenco. "Despite practicing at due with my singing, I'm not a singer, it's 'Black' cinema," she explained.

Next step for Paolo and Liza is an experimental film called "Nina in the Sun." The actress related, "It's all improvisational. We shot all over New York—in the subway stations and Central Park. People were staring, because I was supposed to be a distraught mother searching desperately for her lost child."

It was a collaboration with Paolo and cinematographer Sherwin Mondra. It could've been just another meeting for her new friends, but not for Liza, who's thoroughly enjoying it.

Liza Dizon, right, with flamenco dancer Clara Roca

WINNER of the Manhattan Film Festival with "Composed" Director Paolo Montano. Liza is happy to be the "Black Cinema" winner. "Because of the movie I discover about myself with each take."
